

— TONY ILLING —

Tony Illing is a seasoned negotiator who combines a driven, strategic approach with a genuine passion for the auction process.

With more than 25 years' experience in international sales and management, Tony prides himself on his ability to understand people's needs and to deliver first-class outcomes. Having owned and operated two businesses of his own, he intuitively understands the unique challenges and nuances that accompany every transaction.

Tony's love of the auction call was sparked while growing up on a sheep and cattle station in southwestern Queensland, where livestock auctions were a part of his daily life. An experienced residential, commercial and lifestyle auctioneer, he has a proven reputation for honesty, professionalism and down-to-earth service.

Tony sees every auction as an opportunity to bring buyer and seller together, and to negotiate the best possible outcome for all parties.
